REASON FOR TODAY'S CALL:

About two months ago we had a bad clog in our kitchen sink, we called someone to have it serviced and they cleaned it out. I'm not sure if it was in the pipe or perhaps the garburator. That said they told us that we might experience a low pressure with the hot water and this took place the very next day. It flows very slowly and does not get very hot anymore. The garburator gets a bit more clogged on a regular basis than it used to as well.

DESCRIPTION OF WORK PERFORMED:

The Hot shut off valve was breaking down, causing bits of debris to clog up the supply line. I repaired the Hot shut off valve by replacing the washer, stem, packing, packing nut, and handle, flushed out the debris and tested. Pressure is back to normal.
