REASON FOR TODAY'S CALL:
 Kitchen faucet is loose and plastic garburator ring is now gone

DESCRIPTION OF WORK PERFORMED:
 -I was able to re-secure the kitchen faucet to the kitchen sink by tightening the nut that secures it. The faucet is a little stiff to turn side to side which is likely the reason the nut loosened in the first place and may cause it to loosen again in the future. If the faucet does loosen up again I would suggest replacing it. -The garburator splash guard was deteriorated, I purchased and installed a new one. -I noticed during testing that the dishwasher drain coupling(that connects the dishwasher drain hose to the garburator) was cracked and leaking. I replaced this coupling with new.

TECHNICIAN RECOMMENDATIONS:
 *The new garburator splash guard is removable so it can easily be cleaned. Be sure not to push it into the garburator while it is switched on though.)
